

As an American citizen I must demand the freedom and non molestation of our Internet by corporate, agenda consumed, corrupted decision makers. Our freedom of information is paramount to our evolution as a species and the endearment of humanity. The progression of technology and the information the Internet provides cast the pillars of our human learning and understanding. Mankind must absolutely and ceaselessly resist the censorship, control and manipulation of the corporate campaigns to enslave our minds and intellectual capacity. The unwavering control of the corporate and political bullhorn would be nothing short of brainwashing. The internet is more grand than any mega transnational business could ever fathom. It is the Matrix in which we able to download and absorb further of understanding of the unfathomable unknown. Again as a free and patriotic American citizen I must insist this level of tyranny must be annihilated from our country permanently with extreme prejudice. God bless mankind and their will to reach limitless peaks and depths of information on the internet.
